You are ready to enjoy your favorite DVD movies on all your devices. With the activation of the tax on medical devices, the magnitude of tax evasion on medical devices will become more significant. To prevent this, we would like to add a solution that is more detailed, understandable and practical, that is, a real-time tax evasion monitoring system. Currently, there are many solutions for the tax evasion. One of them is to run a CPA in a client company, and the other one is to integrate the tax evasion and client information systems. In the latter case, the solution is simple and the internal employees can check all the information and detect the evaders directly. However, this solution is insufficient. First, the client company cannot be responsible for the tax evasion which happens in other companies of the client. And the reason is that there is no central data repository for all the information. To solve this problem, a data repository needs to be established, for example, all data from 82157476af
